Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 36 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.1in. Excerpt from The Magic Voice Americas Call for Better Speech: A Make Believe Done in One Act The movement to bring about the use of good English by all Americans, foreign or native born, is patriotic in the truest sense and should have the loyal support of all. Language is the most important bond uniting us as a people. In language our common thoughts and ideals are expressed, and by means of language these common sentiments are diffused throughout the country. Social solidarity in the absence of a national tongue could never be. America has been in the past very negligent in the matter of the vernacular. The Nation was conceived in liberty and is loth to interfere in any way in the affairs of the individual. But new occasions teach new duties. America is now a world power and is taking her place at the council board of the nations to help in determining the future as never before. She must leave no stone unturned which would enable her to be more intelligent and more effective. A hundred million must speak as...
