Excerpt from Strictures on a Pamphlet, Published by a Minority of the Eastern Subordinate Synod, of the Reformed Presbyterian Church By the introduction, pages 3d and 4th, it appears that only part of that address had been sanctioned by the Eastern Synod -that the minority had published the entire address on their own responsibility - and that notes were to be added, explanatory of the instrument, on the same responsibility. As the whole minority of synod was to be held responsible for the notes and explanations, it was confidently expected that some? Thing dignified, manly, and christian; would be published under the sanction of twelve Presbyters, forming that minority but how great was our astonishment to find, under note B. Page 20th, an Essay of Dr. Willson, entitled Prince Messiah, introduced, and a low, personal attack made upon his character as a man under the influence of derangement. Both the rejected part of the address, and the notes (intended to give a definite location to the allusions of the hold him up as the leader of thoughtless men of a party - distracting the church - teaching novel doctrines - novel practices - being new light pedlars - disorganizers - possessed of infuriate zeal - having their party shibboleth - holding vital godliness and moral worth as but minor considerations - as a people who are happily prevented from daring to use any other sword than that of the mouth - men of manufactured consciences, c. c.
