Excerpt: . . . 3 the product of collaborative decisionmaking is to put a selective in-terpretation on the recommendations. To compound this problem under the proposed rule, the States Implementation Plan would be subject to EPA approval. It is ex-tremely unlikely that section 303 (d) of the Clean Water Act pro-vides the EPA with the authority to require each implementation plans. Although this may seem like a minor legal issue, in fact, it could potentially hold grave consequences for private landowners across the country. If, for example, the EPA were to reject an implementa-tion plan based on inadequate riparian buffer widths, even if the buffers were State-approved best management practices, EPA would be free to rewrite the implementation plan under the loop-hole that the Agency has provided itself with the authority to do so by this proposed rule. I believe that this authority...
