Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.From the Burma Road to Kunming, China to Shanghai, a 20-year old US Army Sergeant experiences the perils and pleasures that can come only from the Orient---especially during a World War---from November 1944 to November 1945. Two of the 54 poems have been published. The Five and Dime, was featured in a newspaper s Sunday Supplement, and Cadillac Kate was selected for a well known collection of poems a few years back. Experience the War through a young soldier s eyes. From the people he met and the women he loved, to the hospitals, nurses and more. I was lying in bed in a Kunming tent My nurse was a Burmese beauty; She said, You really velly sick. I said, and you really are some cutie! There s a guy in the next bed, Says, It s called lack-a-nookie. The nurse giggled a bit, and then asked, You guys wan some milk, and maybe a cookie? The doctor, she said, he dink mararia. I tell him, I don dink so. I see whole bunch in India, But here...
