Not illustrated. 1854 Excerpt: .discussion of its subject, and would grace the columns of any of our best reviews; and we suggest to the writer, that it would be well to tender it to the publishers of one of them. We have no doubt it would be welcomely received. Our Exchanges, The Little Wolverine.--We have received a number of this new-comer into the ranks of juvenile literature, and bail it with the heartiest wishes for its success; not only because its editress, Mrs. C. M. Sheldon, has long been a valued friend of the Casket, but because the Little Wolverine is an excellent thing in itself. The Michigan children will feel proud of it, we are sure, and the readers of the Casket, in other parts, would be both benefitted and pleased by its perusal. Published monthly, at Detroit, Mich., by Mrs. C. M. Sheldon, at 30 cents a year. The Children s Fbiend.--The children of the Buckeye state, yes, and all other states, if they please, have in this pretty, well-printed sheet, a friend worth having. Send on your twenty-five cent pieces, and if you are not pleased with your returns, we are greatly mistaken. Direct to S. Vonnieda, Dayton, O. Just before going to press, we have received the following publications: The Michigan Journal of Education, published at Detroit, Mich., J. M. Greoory, resident editor, we are quite pleased with, considering our short acquaintance. From some of its instructions, we think we have already received real benefit. It has...
