Other proposed bills addressed a variety of issues, such as allowing schools to sell advertising and accept supplies bearing logos or other corporate images or requiring school boards to disclose the portion of proceeds from fundraising activities that is contributed to the school activity fund. See appendix III for a state-by-state listing of legislative proposals. In updating the site visit information we collected in 2000, we found only Commercial Activities in slight changes in commercial activities in all seven school districts. All the Seven Districts We districts reported they continued to engage in product sales and display Visited in 2000 Have Not advertising. As we found earlier, most commercial activities, particularly Generally Changed product sales and advertising, occurred in high schools. All the high schools we visited in 2000 still sold soft drinks, and most sold snack or fast food. To varying degrees, all displayed corporate...
