NOTES ON THE END OF THE WORLD (PAPERBACK)

Black Lawrence Press, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Poetry. NOTES ON THE END OF THE WORLD is a quiet apocalypse. You won't find huge explosions or sudden extinctions in Meghan Privitello's poems. Here, the days are marked instead by quiet disappearances, abandoned objects, details that might be otherwise overlooked. Objects double as warning signs: The asbestos siding is a hologram in the leftover sun. / At once, it is a dollhouse made of bones. Animals speak in prophetic visions: In the dead cells of her skin, / I have found your family. / There is an outline of a great tree. / They are all there roped / around their necks, hanging. These poems hold a microscope to life's mundane details, but they are also poems of agency when the apocalypse comes, what use is a good life? When the apocalypse comes, Privitello asks us to be honest, unflinching. With each passing day, NOTES ON THE END OF THE WORLD gets louder and quieter, lonelier and lovelier. The end of the world does not look so different from an ordinary day, so pay attention. In the end, Privitello's poems leave room for regret and the hope of redemption but not much. There is no lack of beauty and strangeness in Meghan Privitello's NOTES ON THE END OF THE WORLD, uncovering museums of dust, shadows, animals, ghosts the Days of this book are filled with lush vocabulary and witchy diction. I feel totally awake and mystical in their presence. Bianca Stone You were mistaken when you thought you were picking up a book of poems not a new strange knife. In NOTES ON THE END OF THE WORLD, Meghan Privitello preserves perverts exploits a landscape where time is most pronounced by...
