Paperback. Condition: New. 288 pages. What if you could go back in time to change some things What would you change How would you change it What if going back meant completely forgetting who you are and actually becoming your younger self, and all you could do is send yourself a message or two to help you On top of that, its a one-time, one-way trip, and you actually have to completely live your life all over again, you cant just pop in and out of the timeline to fix the one or two things that went wrong. Oh, and given that theres a 5050 chance that the trip will make you go insane, so you might just make things much worse instead of better, do you still want to tryThe year is 2028. Youve just discovered the governments newest Top-Secret anti-terrorist weapon, Project Reset. With this technology, agents equipped with specially programmed biological computers designed to interface directly with their own brain are sent back in time to provide the Departments of Defense and Homeland Security with vital information to protect our country from terrorist attacks before they occur. Testing indicates that the window for time travel is much greater than the 1-3 months that these agents are usually traveling, but because of the triggering mechanism thats used to activate the biological computers, no one has ever gone back further than 6 months. Meet Alan Hayes, accountant, Christian, age 76. Not the usual candidate for time travel due to his advanced years and potential health risks, and certainly not an official member of the project team. But when he finds out about Project Reset, he remembers something that happened to him when he was 6 years old that could trigger activation of the biological computer. At first Alan dismisses...
