Excerpt: . . . for agencies to estimate the cost of direct and guaranteed loan programs when preparing their annual budgets. The data used for these budgetary estimates are generally reestimated after the fiscal year-end to reflect any changes in actual loan performance since the budget was prepared. SFFAS No. 2 also contains guidance for recording the reestimated cost of direct loans and the reestimated liability for loan guarantees in the agency's financial statements. Further, SFFAS No. 2 states that agencies should use historical experience as a primary factor upon which estimates of future loan performance should be developed. 23 We testified before this Subcommittee in March that USDA was unable to develop reasonable estimates of the costs of its loan programs because its financial systems were not able to capture the data needed to make these estimates. Also, USDA lacked historical information on borrower behavior, such as how many borrowers will pay early, pay late, or default on their loans and at what point in time. As a result, Congress and other decisionmakers do not know whether they can rely on the agency-reported costs of USDA's loan programs included in the agency's budget request and in its annual financial statements - estimated to be in excess of 27.3 billion as of September 30, 1999 - for programmatic and budgetary decision-making. Cost estimates based on unreliable data can affect the availability of credit programs to potential borrowers because changes in these estimates can affect the number and amount of loans and guarantees that can be made. The Department of Transportation (DOT) also has had difficulty 24 implementing federal accounting standards. DOT's IG reported that DOT...
