Not illustrated. 1899 Excerpt: .to duty and a competent comprehension of the work incidental to the management of the great enterprise popularly known as the Drainage Canal. Mr. Jones is City, County and State Democratic Central Committeeman--a triple honor fully deserved by ability and the personal favor in which he is held by his constituents of the Thirty-fourth Ward. Mr. Jones was a school Teacher in his younger days and has also been a newspaper man an l sailor. His experiences were varied before he entered law and politics. Diplomacy is one of his traits of character. He is generally regarded as a man of superior ability, a good organizer and one who knows how to put up a strong fight. Mr. Jones organized the Bryan and Altgeld Democracy. When the primary bill was pending in 1897 he was one of the first Democrats to step out boldly in the open and declare for reform. Ardent in feeling and strong in party bias, he inspires loyalty to party principles in others. He has always been courageous in the discharge of his official duties. His clear insight into legal and other problems has always been an attainment that might well be envied by less fortunate men. His speeches are always logical, eloquent in their simplicity of statement, well chosen language and in the evidence of honesty of conviction. No picture that can be presented on the pages of this book can give the reader a complete conception of the intellectual power...
