Excerpt from Annual Report of the Division of Immigration and Americanization: For the Year Ending November 30, 1930 Get all of the other necessary papers, but that her sister in Turkey was having considerable trouble in obtaining a death record. We assured her that under the amendment to the immigration laws which passed Congress on June 30, 1930, it was now unnecessary to furnish proof of the husband s death. We then wrote to the American Consul in Turkey giving the facts in the case and received a reply from the Department of State assuring us that the documents that we had recommended would be sufficient to submit when applications for visa and passport were made. From information received recently from the family, we understand all arrangements have now been made for the return of the woman and child to the United States as soon as the husband s estate in Turkey is settled. The second case concerned a man in Fitchburg who had difficulty in proving his legal arrival at Boston, from Ireland, in 1888. A record was found in the Massachusetts State Archives under a name similar in spelling to his Gaelic name, which he had some times used in Ireland. The immigration service issued a certificate of arrival based on the record in the State House and the man was accordingly allowed to file his declaration of intention without being compelled to undergo the expense and inconvenience of first obtaining a certificate of registry.
