

World Crisis: Robert Kurz annotated Interview

By Charles Odevan Xavier

CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 70 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.2in. This book is aimed at the common reader minimally acclimated with the Critique of Political Economy of the German philosopher Karl Marx. The book is an interview with the German philosopher and historian Robert Kurz. The interview was conducted by Graziela Wolfart and Patricia Fachin. The German philosopher starts from the observation that the current global crisis is not about a cyclical crisis from which capitalism will recover further, but it is actually a reflection of the inner economic barrier of capitalism - According to Kurz, the internal barrier of valorization of the value and the beginning of the external ecological barrier was reached. Thus, in the authors thesis, defended in his works and in this interview reproduced and annotated here, capitalism has nowhere to expand. For to him, the substance of capital (value) has lost substance. Kurz, anchored in Karl Marx, says that the substance of value is abstract labor. And this with the microelectronics revolution started in 1980, has lost its aspect of living labor - the abstract work of human wage earners; Was and is being continually...

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

[3.29 MB]

Reviews

This pdf is worth buying. It is actually written in basic words and not confusing. It has been printed in a remarkably basic way in fact it is merely following i finished reading this publication through which really altered me, affect the way i really believe.

-- Dr. Linwood Lehner IV

Thorough information! Its such a excellent read. It is really simplistic but unexpected situations within the fifty percent of your pdf. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Johnathon Moore