CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Condition: New. Sarah Lowe (illustrator). This item is printed on demand. 140 pages. Dimensions: 8.0in. x 5.2in. x 0.3in. Foster may not be as dangerous as the Wolf, but he is a sly old fox nevertheless, and I want him caught, the king instructed the young knight standing before him. He has cheated several old widows out of their homes, and to my mind that makes him the worst of thieves. It should not be too difficult to apprehend him alone, Sir Noble. The old man is no swordsman. His weapon is his tongue. You will not find a more cunning liar and cheat in all the kingdom. In fact, that is how he escaped the knights who were bringing him innot by weapons, but by his lies and trickery. If you catch him, he will not so easily deceive you, I am sure. Noble is disappointed that he is not to ride out with the other knights after the kingdoms most dangerous criminal, the Wolf, and his gang, but instead is going on his own after an old man. While they wait to make their journey Noble is dismayed to discover his prisoner has more than one or two nasty tricks up his sleeve! To make matters worse, the eerie howling of wolves bring childhood fears rushing back. They seem to haunt his dreams and even his footprints in the snow. Noble pushes on, putting his trust in God and allowing nothing to prevent him from carrying out his duty...
