Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Canadian Journal of Industry, Science and Art, Vol. 8 The formation is many thousands of feet in thickness, and it covers an area of 200,000 square miles - running from Labrador along the north shore of the St. Lawrence to the vicinity of Quebec, and throughout all the more northern and north-western portions of the Province, as shewn in the sketch-maps, figs. 154 and 243. By reference to the latter, it will be seen that in the district between Prescott and Kingston, a narrow belt of this formation crosses the St. Lawrence, and expands over a large extent of country, comprising the Adirondack region, in the State of New York. This belt forms a somewhat important feature in the geology of Western Canada. It will be alluded to again, in connection with this sketch, under the name of the gneissoid belt of the Upper St. Lawrence. The Huronian Formation which constitutes the higher division of the Azoic series, consists chiefly of green and greyish slate-conglomerates and other partially altered strata, interstratified with greenstone masses,...
