Paperback. Book Condition: New. Not Signed; A Richer Life: How Economics Can Change the Way We Think and Feel by Philip Roscoe is a radical, inspiring, agenda-setting critique that shows how economics invades our most intimate decisions, and what the real alternatives might be. A brilliant critique (Robert Skidelsky, prize-winning biographer of John Maynard Keynes). Impressive .important .very thoughtful and thought-provoking . (Ha-Joon Chang, author of 23 Things They Don't Tell You About Capitalism). A splendid denunciation of the dismal science .a fine book, on the side of the angels . (Guardian). A powerful description of the many ways we have lost our bearings as a society .makes the case that economics has left us impoverished as human beings .a powerful and engaging read . (Sunday Times). Very readable and entertaining . (Independent). Is a promotion at work worth more than time with family? Does the price of cheap socks compensate for their being made by children? Might a new lover be better than the one you have? How do we choose when what we want is bad for someone else? In fact, in a world as complicated as ours, how do we choose at all? Over the course of the 20th century economics has become our most trusted science of decision-making. From government policies to personal decisions - such as buying a house, educating our children, caring for our sick or even meeting a spouse - economic principles govern both our range of choices and how we choose between them. But economics is not a perfect science. It is political and far from impartial, and yet its values - ownership, efficiency, cost benefit and self-interest - now threaten to usurp all others. At a time when the most urgent problems require collective action, economics is perhaps our greatest obstacle...
