By United States Department of Agriculture

FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Crops and Markets, Vol. 1: Supplement No. 1, January, 1924 The oldest of the three publications which were combined to form Weather, Crops and Markets was the National Weather and Crop Bulletin. The various changes in the title of this publication from the time it was first published by the Weather Bureau in 1891, through 1909, are given in detail in the Check List of U. S. Public Documents 1789 - 190 3d edition. The last title given in the Check list is the National Weather Bulletin. This was continued through 1914, No. 15. The first issue under the new title National Weather and Crop Bulletin was the number for July 6, 1914. In 1919, with No. 37, the Snow and Ice Bulletin was combined with it and during the winter months the title read National Weather and Crop and Snow and Ice Bulletin. In January, 1922, the Snow and Ice Bulletin resumed publication as a separate bulletin and the National Weather and Crop Bulletin was combined with the Market Reporter and the Monthly Crop Reporter to form Weather,...
