In this book, packed full of illustrations and photographs to help you understand the concepts, Monica P. Castaneda teaches you how to analyze and cure your property so that it is visited by abundant chi or life force all the time; how to create a welcoming and attractive front yard and entrance with little effort; how to take advantage of the seasons and natural energies to improve your life; how to make your yard speak the language of life to attract good will and to give your unconscious mind the feedback that things are going well and they can go better; how to have a wonderful view out of every window; how to create outdoor spaces you can use and enjoy; and how to make your landscape prettier and prettier, with less effort every year, so that your outdoor spaces add to the beauty of your property and your neighborhood. From now on, make sure that every aspect of your landscaping contributes to the Feng Shui of your environment instead of detracting to it, by following the simple nine steps outlined in this book.
