Routledge, UK, 2007. Hardcover. Condition: New. First Edition. 224 Pages. At a time when strategic spatial planning is undergoing a renaissance in Europe, The Visual Language of Spatial Planning makes a unique contribution to this rapidly growing area of teaching and research. Discussing the relevant theoretical perspectives on policy-making and planning, combined with cartographic communication and the use of cartographic representations in the planning process, Stephanie Duhr provides conceptual and practical tools to help students and practitioners better understand maps and visualizations in strategic spatial planning. : The book is the first to review the form, style and use of cartographic representations in strategic spacial plans in the Netherlands, Germany and England as well as at European level. Significant differences between planning traditions and the impact of these on transnational planning processes are highlighted. It concludes by discussing the practical implications for future strategic spacial planning processes in Europe and the best use of cartographic representations to reach agreement and to focus dialogue. : About the Author: Stefanie D?hr is Assistant Professor at the Radboud University, Department of Spatial Planning in Nijmegen, the Netherlands. Between 1998 and 2005, Stefanie worked at the University of the West of England, Bristol, on research projects on European territorial cooperation and planning systems in Europe, and completed her PhD research on the use of cartographic representations in planning. Prior to this, she worked on a placement in the European Commission, DG Regio, where she was involved in the work on the European Spatial Development Perspective (ESDP).
