By Naval Postgraduate School

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Observational data from the Global Temperature and Salinity Profile Program (GTSP) were used to calculate the upper ocean heat content (OHC) anomaly. The thickness of the upper layer is taken as 300 m for the Pacific/Atlantic Ocean and 150 m for the Indian Ocean since the Indian Ocean has shallower thermoclines. First, the optimal spectral decomposition (OSD) scheme was used to build up monthly synoptic temperature and salinity data set for January 1990 to December 2009 on 1o1o grids and the same 33 vertical levels as the World Ocean Atlas. Then, the monthly varying upper layer OHC field (H) was obtained. Second, a composite analysis was conducted to obtain the total-time mean OHC field (H) and the monthly mean OHC variability (H), which is found an order of magnitude smaller than H. Third, an empirical orthogonal function (EOF) method is conducted on the residue data (DEGREESH), deviating from H+H, in order to obtain interannual variations of the OHC fields for the three oceans. In the Pacific Ocean, the first two EOF modes...
