Thorough manual! Its this kind of excellent study. It really is written in straightforward terms and never difficult to understand. I am very happy to inform you that this is basically the very best pdf we have read through during my individual existence and could be the greatest ebook for possibly.

Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Is Inerrancy a New Test of Orthodoxy? A discussion of more or less intensity, and accompanied with much rhetoric and apparent feeling, has arisen in these days, on the above subject. Here are declarations on the subject which, being typical, state a certain position fairly: The Rev. T. S. Hamlin, D.D., says: These principles are clear and true quite apart from this particular doctrine or opinion of inerrancy. This, for one, neither affirm nor deny. It is a theory wholly in the air. No living man, no man that has lived for centuries, has seen the original autographs of the Holy Scriptures. We can neither prove nor disprove the theory. We are ignorant about this matter, and should be content to remain so. The Rev. Henry Van Dyke, D.D., says: I will have nothing to do with this theory of the inerrancy of the original autographs. I neither affirm nor deny it. Whether the original autographs were free from the difficulties which exist in the present text, or not, is one of those things which no man can find out. This theory may be true, or it may be purely imaginary. God knows; I do not. I am perfectly contented with my ignorance. The portion of the ordination vow of each minister, elder, and deacon, in the Presbyterian Church, bearing on this subject, is as follows: 1. Do you believe the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments to be the Word of God, the only infallible rule of faith and practice? 2. Do you sincerely receive and adopt the Confession of Faith of this Church, as containing the system of doctrine taught in the...
