Excerpt from A Treatise on Baths and Vapor Baths How comes it, however, that this need has not sprung up long ago? Perhaps from a prevalent idea that our skin is not deserving of any special attention and care? So at least, it would appear - for in very truth, no other organ of our bodies meets with so much abuse and neglect as the skin. If a young lady has a decaying tooth, she speeds straightway to the dentist to have it replaced by a new and more presentable one. Does a bachelor, in his manly prime, detect some incipient gray hairs in his beard, he quickly betakes himself to the hair-dresser to have the corpus delicti at once removed. But for the skin, there is no such considerate anxiety. It is doing a great deal, persons may think, to wash every day the face and hands, the parts which, being uncovered, are visible to every one; but to cleanse thoroughly the rest of the body, but once a week, is deemed hardly worth the trouble. Every Sunday we put on clean, fresh clothing, but to clean and purify every Sunday the natural garment, which envelops the whole body - our skin - is, for the majority of persons, too inconvenient a matter. The reason of this lies probably in the fact, that most people are ignorant of the nature and importance of the skin, and have never taken the trouble to give it a serious thought.
