Excerpt from Report of the Speeches and Proceedings at the Inauguration of the Normal School in Charlottetown, P. E. Island, on Wednesday, the 1st of October, 1856 But while every child may now drink at the rills of instruction which meander through the land, the swelling tide of knowledge ought not to stop here. Looking at the Velocity with which the great engine of education is now travelling on its magnificent way, and the momentum which the mass of society has acquired, it is not to be expected that it will or can stop short. It is a mistake to suppose that nothing more is needed than to teach the children of our farming population to read, write and cipher. It is only as a means to an end that elementary school learning can ever be thought valuable. It is submitted then that the range of instruction should be greatly extended in the majority of schools, so as to embrace Algebra, Mathematics and Agricultural Chemistry at least. The people will find it to their profit, to increase their land assessment by 50 or even 100 per cent, in order to pay competent teachers of such schools, suitable salaries. Our highest seminary. The Central Academy, has hitherto admirably fulfilled the design of its founders, -as witness the high distinctions and honours gained by not a few of its sons in other lands it has always served as the lamp whence our lesser educational lights in town and country drew their sustenance and their supply. It is to be hoped the day is near when it, too, shall tower aloft in its more imposing character of a Collegiate Institution, preparing our own young people for...
