Excerpt from Whims and Oddities: In Prose and Verse It happens to most persons, in occasional lively moments, to have their little chirping fancies and brain crotchets, that skip out of the ordinary meadow-land of the mind. The Author has caught his, and clapped them up in paper and print, like grasshoppers in a cage. The judicious reader will look upon the tri?ing creatures accordingly, and not expect from them the ?ights of poetical winged horses. At a future time, the Press may be troubled with some things of a more serious tone and purpose, - which the Author has re solved upon publishing, in despite of the advice of certain critical friends. His] forte, they are pleased to say, is decidedly humor ous; but a gentleman cannot always be breathing his comic vein. It will be seen, from the illustrations of the present work, that the Inventor is no artist -In fact, he was never meant to draw - any more than the tape-tied curtains mentioned by Mr. Pope. Those who look at his designs, with Ovid s Love of Art, will there fore be disappointed - his sketches are as rude and artless to other sketches, as Ingram s rustic manufacture to the polished chair. The designer is quite aware of their defects; but when Raphael has bestowed seven odd legs upon four Apostles, and Fuseli has stuck in a great goggle head without an owner.
