TRANSCENDENTALISM AND MATERIALISM THE CHRISTIAN MODUS VIVENDI In one of the essays composing his volume, Right and Wrong, Mr. Lilly observes; No sort of compromise, no kind of modits vivendi, seems to me to be possible between the two schools of transcendentalism and materialism. This is a very sweeping assertion, and it could only be made good if one, at any rate, of these two schools were wholly in the wrong, whereas every impartial student would be willing to allow that each emphasises a truth of the utmost importance. To find a modits vivendi between them, therefore, we have but to discover a system which shall include the truth and exclude the error of each. It is proposed to show that a Christian philosophy supplies the possibility of such a system. In making this claim, no pretension is set up to solve all...
