Createspace, United States, 2011. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 203 x 133 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Atheist scholars contend that science continuously reveals religious beliefs to be the hideous fantasies of a prior age (as author Sam Harris put it). However, science may actually be closer to suggesting just the opposite. Modern science suggests that extra dimensions of space and perhaps even whole parallel universes exist, that the fundamental building blocks of our reality don t have real physical properties until they are observed, and that events on Earth can be influenced instantaneously by events deep in the cosmos. Many noted physicists (including Nobel Prize winners and even the father of quantum physics, Max Planck) concluded that matter depends upon the conscious mind for its existence. Indeed, not only is science incapable of disproving God, it reveals that refutation of the possibility of God is the naive perspective. Moreover, it seems quite likely that God intends for us to employ science in order to glean at least a glimpse of what lies beyond our immediate universe.
