NOTES ON CHINESE MEDIAEVAL TRAVELLERS TO THE WEST (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Notes on Chinese Mediaeval Travellers to the West In publishing these pages, the principal object in view has been to furnish savants interested in the ancient history and geography of Asia, with some interesting materials found in ancient Chinese literature. I have tried to make these translations as correct as possible, and it seems to me, that Peking is the only place, where such investigations can be successfully made; for the greater part of the ancient Chinese books required for reference can hardly be found in any European library, or in other libraries elsewhere in China. Peking is also the residence, at the present time, of several of the most accomplished sinologues, besides which there is no want of erudite native scholars; so that even a beginner, as I am, in this branch of knowledge, is in a position to understand Chinese works of difficult style, which could hardly be translated correctly in Europe. I am however, far from asserting that my version is unimpeachable. Every sinologue knows how apt the ambiguous Chinese style is to give rise to misunderstandings, and often the Chinese themselves are unable to solve the difficulties. At the time I wrote the translation of Chang-chun's travels, I had not access to a good book of reference for identifying the dates occurring in the Chinese text, with the corresponding European dates and I have therefore always given the Chinese dates, and mentioned the corresponding European days only approximately. Subsequently Mr. Wylie had the kindness to draw my attention to the importance of specifying the European dates, for Chang-chun mentions precisely the date of a total eclipse of the sun, which...
