The heavy line gives the distribution based on the average of the first and second years figures, while the dotted line gives the distribution for the first year s figures from those cities which reported both years. Along the horizontal axis is indicated the per cent, of the total (or cost per pupil), while the vertical distance indicates the number of cases. This method of indicating variability enables one who is accustomed to this mode of representation to take in at a glance at least the more striking features. It will be noticed that in the main the distribution for the first year s figures, taken alone (the dotted line), conforms to that for the average of the two years. This is...
