Brown. si A P H-Native of New Holland, and Van Diemen s island. Sent by sir J. Banks, in 1790, to Kew garden, where it flowers in the green-house, from April to June. The stem is three feet high, with numerous, round, silky, leafy branches. Lea-ves scattered, or imperfectly whorled, on short hairy stalks, spreading, linear, revolute, entire, a half or threequarters of an inch long; channelled, and rough with minute points, above; silky beneath. Flowers bright-yellow, axillary, on short, silky, rusty stalks, two or three together, numerously crowded about the tops of the branches, so as to form leafy clusters. Legume very hairy, two lines...
