With each dawn rose a new day, but nothing changed. Not really. My life was the same revolving circle. We barely lived. We moved. We barely got by in a new place. Until we moved again. New school. New trailer park. Different day. The first day of my senior year in high school, I was ready to give up. Ready to run far, far away and hope I would never be found. But I m a smart girl. I knew it would never work. I had a plan. One I was so close to fulfilling. I could start over. Be a new person. Live without the poor girl and trailer trash labels attached to my back. I became guarded, living by my own rules. Rule number one: don t worry about learning their names, I wouldn t be around long enough for them to learn mine. But then, I met him. I tried to resist, tried to push away, make myself seem uninterested, but Hayes wouldn t let me. He saw something in me...
