By Author Michael Zadoorian

W. W. Norton Company, United States, 2000. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 216 x 140 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .At last, the novel for everyone who has ever loved something secondhand the High Fidelity of garage sales, the On the Road of thrift shopping, The Moviegoer of the flea market. Richard owns a secondhand store (Satori Junk) just outside Detroit. He s the kind of guy for whom not much happens, until it happens all at once: His mother dies. He rummages his parents basement for good junk and finds (alongside every purse my mother has ever owned since the Fifties) a box of photos that changes his view of everything. He falls apart over his mother s notes on his favorite meal in an old cookbook. He meets Theresa, a fellow hipster, a thrift-attired junk goddess who shares his feeling for castaways, and he falls for her hard. Along the way he acquires some junk wisdom about love and loss. Richard s inimitable, hilarious, philosophical, self-deprecating, yearning voice, and his sharp and loving eye for common foibles and unexpected virtues make for a comic novel crammed full of surprise and...
