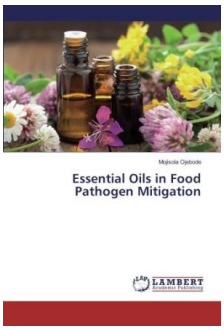
ESSENTIAL OILS IN FOOD PATHOGEN MITIGATION



Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Food safety is an increasingly important public health issue despite continuous improvements in food production techniques and hygiene. In industrialized countries, about 30% of people suffer from a food borne disease each year. Microbial activity is a primary mode of deterioration of foods and many microorganisms are responsible for such occurrences that contribute to loss of food quality and safety. Essential oils in Food Pathogen Mitigation is a highly educative book that...
