Excerpt from College Discipline: An Inaugural Address Delivered at Davidson College, on the 28th February, 1855 I left a warm hearted, generous, hospitable people, distinguished for their intelligence, piety, and high-toned principles; I left a Board of Trustees, whose unvarying kindness and confidence, no gratitude Of mine can ever repay; I left a Faculty, whose venerable head, I revered as a Father, and with whose junior members, my intercourse was that Of a brother; [left a College, the character Of whose students was such that during six years, I received not a single mark Of discourtesy, or disrespect. Surely then, in view of the many pleasant attendants upon my life in Virginia, the motives that prompted to a change of location, could have been neither few, nor slight. Some of them only need I give. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
