Excerpt from The Problem of the Churchless and Poor in Our Large Towns: With Special Reference to the Home Mission Work of the Church of Scotland But, amid all the variations of outward ecclesiastical constitution and government, this principle of aggressiveness on the kingdom of darkness remains the same. That Church which most zealously carries out the parting commission of the Divine Founder of our religion to preach the Gospel to every creature, that is not only zealous in the building up of believers, but in bringing in the outcasts, whether She can lay claim to so-called Apostolical succession or not, is surely carrying out Christ's own idea of what His Church Should be. Every Christian worker, fired with zeal for the extension of Christ's kingdom, be he minister or layman, presbyter or priest, is a successor of the apostles in the sense in which he can truly be - viz., in witness-bearing for Christ. It is with the second function of a Christian Church that which respects the ingathering of the Churchless - that we have in these pages chiefly to do. And, in considering the various Christian Churches in this land that claim to fulfil this important function, I select the one that has the greatest responsibility, as well as the greatest advantages for this end - the Church of Scotland.
