

The Road To NaLin A Small Project.A World of Difference Building a proper road to a remote village in northern Laos

By Ms Trish Clark

High Adventure Publishing. Paperback. Condition: New. 328 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.8in. This is the inspirational story of how an older Australian couple, Trish Clark and Iain Finlay. . . both authors in their seventies. . . built a proper road to a remote and impoverished village in Northern Laos. While working on an internet project of their own in Luang Prabang, the World Heritage-Listed former Royal Capital of Laos, they befriended a young waiter, Chanthy, who was studying at night school. They began helping him, first with his English, then with his college fees and accommodation. His parents, relatively poor subsistence rice farmers, pleased at this unexpected boost for their son, asked Trish and Iain to visit their village, NaLin, about three hours south of Luang Prabang, down the Mekong River, or four hours by dirt road. After a brief weekend stay in the village, during which they were treated to a traditional baci ceremony in their honor, they came away wondering what they could do to help the villagers, whose average daily earnings were little more than three dollars. At the time there was no electricity, no running water. . . except for that from a mountain...
