White Field, Black Sheep: A Lithuanian-American Life (Hardback)

By Daiva Markelis

The University of Chicago Press, United States, 2010. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Her parents never really explained what a D.P. was. Years later Daiva Markelis learned that displaced person was the designation bestowed upon European refugees like her mom and dad who fled communist Lithuania after the war. Growing up in the Chicago suburb of Cicero, though, Markelis had only heard the name T.P., since her folks pronounced the D as a T: In first grade we had learned about the Plains Indians, who had lived in tent-like dwellings made of wood and buffalo skin called teepees. In my childish confusion, I thought that perhaps my parents weren't Lithuanian at all, but Cherokee. I went around telling people that I was the child of teepees . So begins this touching and affectionate memoir about growing up as a daughter of Lithuanian immigrants. Markelis was raised during the 1960s and 70s in a household where Lithuanian was the first language. White Field, Black Sheep derives much of its charm from this collision of old world and new: a tough but cultured generation that can't quite understand the ways of America and a younger one...
