Excerpt from The Michigan Alumnus, Vol. 4: July, 1898 To use a homely comparison it seems to me that the body of college men and women should perform in society the functions of a balance wheel. They have studied more deeply the lessons of history, they have examined more carefully the foundations of our political system, and they should exercise a steady influence throughout the whole country. They should not rush blindly into new policies nor rudely attempt to change existing institutions. As reformers they should not think of changing the face of the earth in a day but should recognize conditions as they exist and approach the present day problems from the standpoint of common sense. Their place is in the thickest of the fight. NO supposed superiority or contempt assumed because of knowledge should hold them aloof from any man. One thing above all is certain. Our future will be determined by us, not for us. It may be that our life work will be chosen by chance rather than desire or inclination, but there luck and chance end. The manner in which our vocations are pursued is governed by neither. This brings the matter home to each one of us and we should meet it fairly and squarely. Whichever way we turn we see that the world wants men and women with faith in something, enthusiasm for something, and ability to do something. The University sends us forth at an age when we should be vigorous, energetic, and ambitious. The opportunity lies before us. It is ours to take advantage of it.
