Q.--Can I learn the elements of the machinist trade in a reaper and mower shop? A.--Yes. 1, ea6. Q.--I am seventeen years of age and intend some day to be a mechanical engineer. I am now in second year of the high school. What would be the best thing for me to do, stop school now and go for a few years in a machine shop or drafting office and then go to a technical school, and get my practical education afterward? A.--Do not leave the high school; get all the education you can. As to whether first to enter the machine shop or technical school you must use your own judgment, and be guided by the advice of your teachers and friends who are better acquainted with you and your abilities than we are. 1.027. Q.--I am an apprentice learning the trade of a machinist. I have worked two years in a rather rough shop, and sometimes I work a month at a time on sheet-iron work, but I have run a lathe and planer probably one-half of the time. What I want to ask is, if it would not be better to leave and go to some other shop to finish my trade? A.--As we understand it, you have agreed to work a certain time to learn a trade, and taking your own statement we fail to see that you have serious cause for complaint. One year of the...
