Design & Construction of A
Thermometer By Using
Matlab Coding

Parallel Interfacing with Matlab

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Parallel Interfacing with Matlab | Temperature measurement is an integral part of many process industries. Thus it is essential to have a competent system for this measurement purpose. We deals with the design and implementation of a Personal Computer (PC) based temperature measurement system. The main sensor used in this case is a commercially available thermistor and custom-made signal conditioning hardware and a data acquisition system. The distinct advantage of this system...
