What a month to be out in the bush. This time of the year was known as, the suicide month due to the extremely high temperatures and the corresponding rate of people taking their lives. The sweltering heat makes your sweat attract bugs of all sorts, some stinging your skin. The heat haze lifting from the dry, cracking, baked earth reminds you that you are in an extremely harsh environment, one that is not to be underestimated. Through the haze, everything around you shimmers in the day light; the trees swayed, and not from the breeze, the rocks shifted, and all the shadows appeared as though they are watching you. The light, burning winds move through the tall golden, dry, tick infested grasses of the vlei. Breathing in this hot air is like breathing in liquid fire. Your sweat runs between your shirt and back and trickles uncomfortably into your trousers. Everything you wear clings to your body and feels damp and humid. In the distance, I can hear the constant cooing of the bush dove. The local people say that the dove is calling out to them saying. You have harvested all the corn and I am suffering from hunger, where is the corn. I am Adrian Riley and I am riding through the bush on my horse, tracking poachers. This might sound exciting; and it is to a certain extent, but it is also very deadly. The chances of being wounded or even killed are very high. However, I have been doing this for quite a few years now and I really enjoy working in the bush. The incessant insect...
