Excerpt from Improvement Era, Vol. 10: August, 1907 The Doctrine and Covenants is uniform in purpose and define it in doctrine, - teaching us how to live and sanctify our bodies, establishing the genuine system of divine religion, by which we may measure our steps with assurance of salvation and reward for individual effort. Instead of infant damnation, we have infant purity and salvation through the blood of Christ. Little children are pure, - of such is the kingdom of heaven. We do not believe that men will be punished for Adams transgression, that men are destined to be saved or lost irrespective of worthiness and obedience, that men will be saved by faith or grace alone, or that the principles of the gospel are temporal and evolutionary. We do not believe that men can obtain the authority of the priesthood by scholastic or reverential training, or that they can assume the role of self-appointment by usurping the authority of the apostles of old, - repudiating Gods right and power to reveal him self or minister to the children of men.
