AuthorHouse. Paperback. Condition: New. 316 pages. Dimensions: 8.9in. x 5.8in. x 0.8in. Lanikai Lanikai is a series of love stories presented in three parts. A Polynesian tapestry interwoven with a cast of characters that reveal the Hawaiian heart and spirit, it begins in 1959, the year Hawaii is admitted to the United States. Over the time period which spans more than twenty years, a unique glimpse of twentieth century Hawaiian culture is brought to life. Part I: Kaikaina and Kaleinani Kalei McClure, a pretty hapa haole girl and Kaikaina Cruz, the golden boy from Kalihi are brought together at a high school military ball. Their love is doomed to fail when misinterpreted betrayal and Kaikaina's driving ambition develop into insurmountable obstacles. For years, they are destined to part as they each experience painful heartaches and circumstances marked by tragedy. Part II. Puamana an undaunted, bold girl is transported to California by an unexpected marriage to a young man of wealth. His unfaithfulness drives her back to Hawaii where she eventually meets the true love of her life. Part III: Na Keiki O Lanikai (Children of Lanikai) brings in the second generation of the three sons of Kaikaina Cruz : Keoni, a replica of his father, successful, educated and warm hearted is torn between his haughty girlfriend and his reluctant attraction to a girl he rescues from an abusive family, Keo, toughened as a child by being bullied for his fair skinned appearance, is determined to associate with only Hawaiians until he meets an irresistible haole surfer girl who wins his unwilling heart. Eleu, the adopted son with his quick wit and winning personality, brings life into the Cruz home. In all three parts, the picturesque view of the Mokulua Islands, the cerulean blue waters and the sparkling white sands of Lanikai is...
